Stay connected on holiday with Uniden's Walkie Talkie range with innovative Kid Zone feature

Families and friends planning a trip or outdoor adventure over summer can easily stay connected using Uniden's new UH45 Walkie Talkie Radios.

The Walkie Talkie (UHF) range provides an easy and reliable way to communicate when mobile phone signal is minimal. With their compact and lightweight design, the Uniden radios are perfect for taking on holiday and effortless to carry on a hike. Available in packs of up to four colourful units, each offering up to 80 UHF channels, the radios are a handy tool for trekking over mountains or through the bush.

The innovative Kid Zone function can be enabled to block out any unwanted conversations on other channels. This creates a secure and safe way for children to communicate with their parents while on holiday, or when playing with friends in the backyard.

Keep tabs on battery levels via the backlit LCD display. Rechargeable batteries can also be used with the radio and topped up by using the USB cable connection. An inbuilt LED light provides users with an additional light source when visibility is low, perfect for navigating a campsite at night.

The UH45 range features an extreme distance booster (D+Booster) via repeater stations providing superior range compared to a standard UHF radio and allows clear communication with family and friends who may have split from the group.

Choose between four bright colours to suit individual personalities, including two camouflage designs for adventurous kids.
