

Uniden unveils new App Cam SOLO X home security range

Leading technology brand Uniden has released its new App Cam SOLO X range, an easy-to-use plug and play security solution featuring eight new 100% wire-free cameras to watch over a home, inside and out. With high-quality inclusions, the new range adds a video doorbell and a selection of easy to install cameras that can be scaled to suit any property, all accessible in one ecosystem with the MyUniden+ App. All cameras capture in 2K Super HD.

Delivering free 7-day rolling cloud coverage and SD card backup for the lifetime of the product, with no surprise subscriptions or additional ongoing charges*. Helping more Aussies to create a sense of safety and security, the cameras help to monitor household deliveries, check on the status of the house while at work or on holidays, and stay in touch with pets when they're home alone.

According to Brad Hales, National Marketing Communications Manager for Uniden, the new range offers a lot to the security camera market, with something for everyone. "This new range of wire-free security cameras provides an innovative and functional way for people to monitor their homes, capturing every detail and storing footage for peace of mind and deterring a crime before it happens. We've taken all kinds of consumers into consideration when developing this range, knowing that people seek out trusted brands with a local presence, and most importantly create products that are reliable with no hidden fees after the product purchase."

 30-day subscriptions and advanced Ai subscriptions available if required.*

The App Cam SOLO X2K helps households to build a system to meet their individual security needs, adding one, two or four cameras at a time. Each camera has an integrated spotlight, Thermosense Technology for heat and movement detection, a two-way audio feature to talk via the app, a 120-degree wide viewing angle and a siren alert trigger, ensuring occupants are made aware of any intrusions. Paired with the Uniden solar panel accessory, the camera battery will require minimal USB recharging.
