Uniden is in a class of its own with the WIN 1200 Windows Live™ Messenger dual mode cordless phone that uses Voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP) to transmit telephone calls over the internet, so now you can go from chatting online to chatting on your cordless phone. The WIN 1200 connects to both a standard phone line and to your PC so you can use Windows Live™ Messenger to enable free PC to PC online calls.

Choose your online contact and talk PC to PC for free.

Browse your contact list to see who's online and who's busy.

Check the status of your messages.

Ideal for home offices, anyone making significant interstate or international calls, or people that want to effortlessly stay in touch with their on-line contacts, the WIN 1200 is a convenient cost effective solution. The dual mode cordless phone switches seamlessly between online Internet and regular calls with the dual mode function. Featuring a stylish black slim-line design, the handset utilizes 5.8GHz digital spread spectrum technology to ensure outstanding clarity.

A large colour LCD screen makes browsing your Windows Live™ Messenger contacts to see who's online and who's busy, so easy. Users can also be notified when new emails are received or listed contacts come online through Windows Live™ Messenger. The phone also has convenient cordless phone features including caller ID, a digital duplex speakerphone, an advanced 400 number phonebook and polyphonic ring tones.

Excellent quality, performance and powerful features make the WIN 1200 the most versatile and impressive internet enabled dual mode cordless phone on the market.
